police. It's ten times more fun to be hunted than to hunt any day. Try it and see.

"I notice by the papers to-day that Mr. Dill would rather have had back some of the articles—belonging to his daughter than the locket. I assure you I am sorry I made the mistake, but it is too late to rectify it now. But that must be as it is. It's just part of the game, and Mr. Dill ought to be 'sport' enough to play his hand as it's dealt to him. That's what I do. Yours with much respect.

"Feb. 9, 1904."

This letter was typewritten, and on the paper was a crest representing Mephistopheles; beneath in a scroll is the inscription. "Who the devil is this from?" The letter was mailed from Station U, One Hundred and Third street and Third avenue, at 9.30 P. M. Tuesday.

Mr. Dill said to-day that the statement had been made that the man under suspicion had been a guest at his home.

World Know Him Again.

World Know Him Again. Would Know Him Again.

"That is a mistake," he added. "The young man under suspicion has not lived in East Orange for three years. In fact I might not recognize him now, but I could identify my Raffles were I to see him again under the same circumstances as I saw him when he robbed my house.

Curry grappled with Burgess, who struck his right eye twice, fastened his teeth in ins cheek and then kicked him out of the room.

Women ran for help to the West Sixty-eighth Street Station, and three policemen went to the house, subdued Burgess with their night sticks and carried him to the station. His weeping wife followed, saying she did not want her husband locked up, but Curry lodged a complaint against him.

MARRIED HIS WIFE'S NURSE. UTICA, N. Y., Feb. 10 .- Considerable surprise was caused when it became known that Frederick Schmidt, of Newark, N. J., had married Miss Regina Goppert, of this city. The couple met two years ago, when she was engaged as nurse to attend his wife, whose illers proved fatal. Mr. Schmidt is a leather manufacturer.
